

Did you hear what they did to me?
Do you know what they did?
Surely, you've heard

They ripped my sexuality from me, stole me
 from my sisters and isolated me

And you know I'm not the first they've silenced?
 Do you care?

The mighty hero the omnipotent god,

Are they worthy of living
 And I am not?

You're all the same
 You dare not look in my eyes for fear you'll turn to stone

You,
 who avoid my gaze
 for fear of your life

Do you believe everything that they say about me?

Do you believe?

Are you afraid?

Are you afraid of what you'll see in my eyes or what you'll see reflected back at you?

Do you fear me?
 or,
Do you fear yourself?
