

my body smells of death

Perhaps it is because I died long ago

Perhaps it is because I have not died soon enough the smell of corpses lingers in my hair and my mouth stills and grows cold frozen as pouring forth a miasma strong enough that not even the scent of flowers can hide

My lips grow pale Cheeks lose their color

And my eyes

Well

Those have been dead for much longer