

I pick up the comb

sitting in front of my vanity

and I laugh

I seem to forget      even now      that my tresses have long been replaced with snakes

I set the comb down again

I haven't needed it in thousands of years yet I still keep the old thing